

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An apparatus for securing a watercraft to another vessel or platform with a rack assembly. The rack assembly is adapted to lift and carry a watercraft out of the water. The rack assembly has a pair of rails adapted to support the watercraft.

- 5 The pair of rails pivot whereby the ends of the pair of rails moves from a submerged position suitable for driving the watercraft onto the pair of rails to a raised position with the ends of the pair of rails is above the water level.